SPIRIT OF MISSIONS.

Vol. LVIII.

JUNE, A. D. 1893.

No. 6.

ABSTRACT OF PROCEEDINGS OF THE BOARD OF MANAGERS AT ITS MEETING, TUESDAY, MAY 9TH, 1893.

- The following elected members were present: The Right Rev. Drs. Littlejohn, Whitaker and Potter; the Rev. Drs. Hoffman, Eccleston, Shipman, Brown, Vibbert, and Anstice and the Rev. Mr. Christian; and Messrs. Vanderbilt, Low, King, Mills, Cutting and Chauncey. Of the ex-officio members the Right Rev. Dr. Neely was present. In the absence of the President and Vice-President the Right Rev. Dr. Whitaker was called to the chair, which before adjournment he relinquished to the Right Rev. Dr. Littlejohn.
- —— By resolution, the date of the beginning of the Missionary Council in San Francisco was fixed for October 22d.
- The Rev. J. G. Hammersköld has been appointed by the Bishop of New York, under the resolution of the Board published last month, as general missionary to the Swedes in this country.
- Miss Georgia E. Starr was appointed for a term of years as teacher of English in St. John's College, Shanghai, China. Further particulars are given on another page.
- The Right Rev. Dr. Vincent, Assistant Bishop of Southern Ohio, was elected to fill the vacancy in the membership of the Board.

TWO GENEROUS MEN GONE TO THEIR REWARD.

George A. Jarvis, of Brooklyn, in the Diocese of Long Island, who died at his home on May 3d, has left behind him memorials of his faithful stewardship. Jarvis Hall, a school for boys in Denver, Colorado, is the fruit of a gift to Bishop Randall in the early days of his episcopate. Jarvis Hall of Science at Trinity College, Hartford, Conn., and Jarvis Hall at the General Theological Seminary, New York, were more recent gifts, the latter following upon a gift of $10,000 to the same institution to found the Bishop Paddock Lectureship. Mr. Jarvis felt a lively interest in the progress of the Church, and to the end of his long life devoted his means and his thought to its advancement.

WILLIAM W. THOMAS, of Elizabeth, in the Diocese of New Jersey, who died at his home May 5th, was unceasing in his benefactions for the extension of the truth of the Gospel, which was dear to his heart. He early recognized the claims of the Church to a share of all that he received, and from the time that he was a clerk upon a salary of $800 he gave not less than a tenth of his income every year in charity. Many thousands of dollars first and last went from him to aid the missionary work of the Church.

Such devoted friends of missions as both of these who have so recently gone to their reward are worthy to be held up as examples, and it does not commend them the less to say that they found their chief pleasure in doing good, and that they regarded it not only as a duty, but also as a privilege.

May the generation of such benefactors of the Church rapidly increase and the joy which they experienced be multiplied.

THE BISHOPS-ELECT.

THE consecration of the Bishops-elect for China and Japan is expected to take place near the middle of June, as the Presiding Bishop shall appoint. The Rev. Dr. John McKim, Bishop-elect of Yeddo (Japan), who arrived at San Francisco April 22d, has been busy filling engagements to speak in different places. The Rev. Dr. Frederick R. Graves, Bishop-elect of Shanghai (China), arrived at Vancouver May 23d and immediately proceeded to New York. Both the Bishops-elect are eager to be back in their respective fields early in the fall, and therefore will have little time here in which to present the claims of their missions. Would that it were possible to provide an endowment for the support of both these Bishops so that when they return to their missions they might plan their work and urge their claims upon the Church without feeling that they were pleading for their personal support.

THE MISSIONARY EPISCOPATE.

BISHOP GILBERT, who preached at the consecration of Bishop Barker for Western Colorado, on "The Episcopate and the Prayer Book the Two Arms of the Church," has the following to say about Missionary Bishops:

The Church, in our New West, is not the last to enter in, but among the very first. The benefits of this policy are seen at once. The Bishop is on the ground to meet and mould the incoming thousands. He plants missions, he organizes schools, he establishes hospitals and orphanages, he calls to his side a body of clergy; and as he goes to the East from time to time, like the early discoverers of this country, he arouses the enthusiasm and interest of the home people there by his stories of opportunities opened, and churches planted, and souls saved in his far-distant home. It is, I hesitate not to say, the words and work of the Missionary Bishop, that have stirred the life of the whole Church into activity for Missions, more than any other human agency.

With these things before our eyes why should there be hesitation in sending forth more Bishops? Send them forth, as we send our brother to-day, as a Missionary Bishop, with the whole Church back of them. Divide the vast empires embraced within our present dioceses, and make missionary jurisdictions. Send out to them as their Bishops the chosen men of the Church. Let the Church do this with courage and faith, and the blessed results will ever more and more be forthcoming. Our hearts exult as we read the stories of the last General Convention of the Church, with its missionary enthusiasm and high impulse manifested in the creation of five new missionary jurisdictions, and the choosing of five Bishops for them; but I confidently believe, brethren, that our eyes shall see even greater things than this. I believe that the Church is realizing by every mighty movement forward the wisdom of multiplying ishops, and will display it ever more clearly as the years go by. The Missionary Episcopate is the glory and strength of the Church.

AN ESTIMATE OF THE PRAYER BOOK FROM A CONGREGATIONAL DIVINE

THE Rev. Thomas K. Beecher, of Elmira, New York, some years ago in preaching to his congregation on the Episcopal Church said of the Prayer Book:

In English there are no lessons, gospels, psalms, collects, confessions, thanksgivings, prayers—in one word, no religious form book—that can stand a moment in comparison with the Prayer Book of the Episcopal Church in the two-fold quality of richness and age. You rarely hear in any church a prayer spoken in English that is not indebted to the Prayer Book for some of its choicest periods. Every one has at some time been shocked or bored by public devotional performances. Nothing of this sort ever occurs in the Episcopal Church. All things are done decently and in order. To be a devout and consistent Churchman brings a man through aisles fragrant with holy association, and accompanied by a long procession of the good, chanting as they march an orison of piety and hope, until they come to the holy place where shining saints sing the new song of the redeemed, and they sing with them.

OUR COMPOSITE NATIONAL CHARACTER.

JUSTICE BREWER of the United States Supreme Court, has sketched with great beauty and force the character of this great nation of ours. The following is a portion of his very graphic portraiture:

Not only is this country our home, but in a present and prophetic sense it is the home of humanity; not of one race, but of all races. From the earliest dawn of our national life, the motto over our doors has been "Welcome to the world"; and from every land and out of every nation there has poured a steady stream of life, to mix and mingle its volume with that which courses down the history of America. This is not an Anglo-Saxon, not a Teutonic, not even a Caucasian nation. The blood of all races mingles in that of the American people. Hither come Anglo-Saxon and Celt, Gaul and Teuton, Scandinavian and Russ, Spaniard and Italian, Turk and Arab, Negro and Indian, Japanese and islander of the seas, all mixing and mingling in one volume of American life, and making out of this heterogeneous mass a single composite national character. Everybody has been and is welcome here, the Chinese alone excepted-God pity us for the exception—and all are coming not merely to dwell and toil here, but to share in our inheritance and make up the mass of our national life. It seems as though on the canvas of America was visible the picture first seen in the apocalyptic vision of "a great multitude, which no man could number, of all nations, and kindreds, and peoples, and tongues." And may not the finishing touch soon be added to the picture by the universal voice saying, "Amen. Blessing, and glory, and wisdom, and thanksgiving, and honor, and power, and might, be unto our God for ever and ever. Amen."

WISE BUILDERS.

THE Rev. W. C. Merritt, a missionary in the State of Washington, gives in the Home Missionary Magazine, an interesting account of how cities are built in Washington, Oregon, and other western states, and the characteristics of the men who become wise locators and successful builders of cities. In the following extract he sums up these characteristics, and says that they should belong pre-eminently to those who are laboring and building for God:

First, they have an unquestioning faith in the feasibility of their enterprises; they believe in them thoroughly, and then convert others to that belief,

Second, they have confidence in themselves as competent to successfully carry through the undertaking.

Third, they give themselves to the work without reserve, and with untiring energy. Fourth, they combine, unite forces, do not drive away those they need or dissipate their power.

Fifth, THEY GO AFTER MEN. They must have the people, and they get them.

Every one of these characteristics should belong pre-eminently to the winner of souls, and the leaders of God's hosts. The Master said that in His generation the children of the world were wiser than the children of light. It was a commendation to the former and a reproach to the latter. Must that reproach continue indefinitely? Why shall not the children of light plan as wisely, think as shrewdly, foresee as clearly, consummate as grandly as the children of the world? God help us to remove this reproach from our generation, and to arise and build for Him with a faith, a confidence, a courage, an energy, a concentration, and a PURPOSE that shall as grandly surpass the past as God's thoughts surpass man's.

AN IMPORTANT WORK.

THE Mission Field, the organ of the Society for the Propagation of the Gospel, says:

The society is shortly about to publish, in an octavo volume (of about 1,000 pages), a digest of its proceedings, journals, MSS. letters and reports with a record of all the missionaries whom it has supported, from the date of its incorporation by Royal Charter in 1701 to the present time. This work will be of great use in giving the early history, not only of the Church in the United States, on which, up to the date of the Declaration of Independence in 1776, the society spent nearly a quarter of a million of money, but of the foundation of the Church in every colony of the empire. The missionary work in India, as well as in countries outside the limits of the empire, will be recorded at length. The work will be illustrated by portraits of the fourteen Archbishops of Canterbury, who have been its presidents; of Bishop Seabury, the first Bishop of the United States; and of the Rev. G. Keith, the first missionary sent to America in 1702; and with illustrations of many colleges in foreign parts, which the society has helped by endowment or otherwise.

AN EXPRESSION OF THANKFULNESS.

ON July 7th this year will occur the one hundredth anniversary of the consecration of the first Bishop of Quebec. His successor, Dr. Dunn, the fifth and present Bishop, sends this message to the Society for the Propagation of the Gospel:

There is amongst our Church people a strong feeling that we ought to show in some practical way our thankfulness for God's manifold blessings bestowed upon our diocese during the first hundred years of its existence.

It has been suggested that nothing could more appropriately express this thankfulness than the adoption of a measure involving some real sacrifice on our part for the voluntary relinquishment of the annual grant of the venerable society, to whose fostering care, during the greater part of this hundred years, the diocese owes more than words can express.

BRIEF MENTION.

Is not this a magnificent dedication of wealth? Lady Forrester has left $1,000,000 to build and endow a hospital and convalescent home at Stone, near Medford, England her country residence.

THE Rev. Dr. Pierson says: "A woman went round my church to get offerings for Foreign Missions, and her uniform plea was, 'You can give this and you will not feel it a bit." That was a damaging recommendation. We give and we do not feel it; neither does the world feel it very much."

THE letter from Bishop Whipple concerning Bishop Horden, on another page, will be found interesting reading. We profoundly regret to learn that Bishop Whipple, who was thought to be recovering from an attack of illness at Minneapolis, has had a relapse and his condition is considered serious. Bishop Gilbert has been dangerously ill at his home in St. Paul, Minneapolis, but is reported as improving.

SPEAKING of the Lenten Offering the Oregon Churchman says: "The indications [in Oregon] so far, are very encouraging. Some eighteen Sunday-schools have made returns to the Bishop, and with about two exceptions, every school has increased its offering. In many cases this increase is quite considerable, and in one, six times as much as was given last year. If the schools yet to hear from do as well, we shall reach the $1,200 of last year without a doubt."

BISHOP KENDRICK writes that he had just returned from Prescott, Arizona, where he advanced to the Priesthood the Rev. A. Iliff of Phoenix. This is the Bishop's first ordination to the Priesthood of one who became a candidate for Holy Orders under him. The Bishop will spend the month of July, with his family, in southern California. The month of August he has promised to the Missionary Jurisdiction of Northern Michigan.

THE article on another page on Church work in the West is taken from the St. Andrew's Cross. Mr. McBee and Mr. Wood, who prepared it, have just returned from an extended tour in the interest of the Brotherhood of St. Andrew. Nothing better has been written on the subject, and its value is enhanced by the fact that it is the immediate outcome of observation.

WITH OUR CORRESPONDENTS.

BISHOP HARE writes from Pine Ridge Agency, South Dakota, under date of May 21st: "I am just out of the wilderness and within thirty miles of the railroad after two weeks of constant services in the Indian settlements—the daily routine being generally an early service, a drive of fifteen to twenty miles; then another service; then another drive of about the same distance, followed by an evening service. My experiences have been very rich, and the cause of great thankfulness to God."

The rector of Grace Church, Utica, New York, writes: "We do not often speak of what we do, but seeing that others have written you about the success of their efforts with the children in Lent, I am emboldened to say a word on the same subject. About the beginning of Lent we made the Sunday-school a branch of the Junior Auxiliary, and urged the children to make special efforts to offer at Easter not only more money, but some kind of useful articles also, for missionaries. They took hold with a will; some of the teachers organized sewing classes, in which even boys engaged with the girls in making garments, etc., and much interest was manifested. You have received the money which they raised in their mite chests, $124.40 (last year it was about $92), and a box has been sent to Georgia worth $83.40, filled with aprons, etc., which Mr. Anderson, of Athens, will make use of by selling them at low rates for the benefit of the church which he wants to build, and now the children are again at work raising $50 to be offered at Whitsunday for the mission parish house of the Rev. Mr. Gring, Kyoto, Japan, the Woman's Auxiliary having raised the other $50 of my pledge to him of $100 for that purpose. We have given the classes the names of Missionary and Pioneer Bishops, and set the teachers at work to tell the children all about them. We think the Sunday-school plan is the best possible thing for the Junior Auxiliary."

Mr. FRANK D. HOAG, a member of the Brotherhood of St. Andrew, is also superintendent of Christ Church Sunday-school, Woodland Park, Chicago. In sending its Lenten offering, he writes: "The offering of our little Sunday-school, amounting to $55.09, I have forwarded to the Treasurer. This is for the forty days of Lent, the Sunday offerings, amounting to $30, being retained for our home work. Their Easter-day offering, amounting to over $10, was given for Diocesan Missions. We sent you one year ago $21.75, so that you will see that this is a wonderful achievement, especially when I tell you that our school is very little larger. If this ratio of increase is maintained by all the schools you will not stop at $100,000. We are extremely gratified at the result, and also very much surprised, for while we could see that the interest taken by the children was much keener than ever before, yet we never dreamed that the result of this interest would be so large. The little missionary paper has done much to bring about this revival in interest. The children always begin to ask for it one or two Sundays before it arrives. We did not hold out any inducement or promise of reward in return and they were so absorbed and interested in the missionary banks that it never seems to have occurred to them that they have always in years past received little Easter presents. We gave them nothing, and the best feature of it all is that the reaction and the resultant falling off in attendance after Easter have not occurred this year. Our school is The spiritual tone was never so high and it has unquestionably peractually growing. vaded the whole parish. The children all the year supply two schools elsewhere with their papers after they have read them. All in all it has been a 'glorious feast of Lent' with us, and I as their superintendent cannot cease from being thankful to Almighty God that my lot has been cast among the children. It is a constant source of inspiration to me. While you are receiving such large sums of money to be used in the much needed work, yet you are doing a far greater work in sowing the seed in the hearts of the children that is sure to yield a most abundant harvest. Verily, we see the Gospel in action. This has been always my theory of Sunday-school work-to keep before the children constantly the idea of giving, spreading. If rightly pursued it will be a better mode of interesting them than offering rewards. Teach them that the act itself is their reward. It is constantly being confirmed with us. Our children are waiting patiently for the result."

MRS. B. H. GREENE of Helena, Montana, writes: "Thank you for putting in my note about our Chinese Christians [in the May number]. They read THE SPIRIT OF MISSIONS regularly and with great interest. Two of them were so pleased with the article, 'Chinese Exclusion Law' that they begged me to order a copy for each of them. I am expecting them to ask to subscribe pretty soon. They were greatly excited over your earnest appeal for $100,000, from the Sunday-schools for missions. When they read in the April number that the $100,000 had not yet been raised, and that the schools had another chance to make up the sum, they decided at once to take up another collection for missions. They were greatly amused at the account of the orphan boy who said that the $100,000 must be raised and gave two more cents to help toward it. They appreciated the fact that small offerings were not of necessity to be despised. They were two or three days talking the thing over among themselves. I had told them if they could only send one dollar it would be far better than nothing; that every school in the land should send a little to help make up the deficit. I was extremely pleased when with beaming faces $5,50 was handed me yesterday. I had not expected so much as they had been so liberal at Easter. You may know that they will scan the pages of THE SPIRIT OF MISSIONS with increased interest to see if the desired amount be raised, having worked so faithfully to aid toward it. The $5.50 for missions and the $2.00 for books and QUARTERLY MESSAGE I put in one draft."

ARCHDEACON JOYNER of South Carolina, sends the following: "After a service held for a congregation of colored people, and while surrounded by them, shaking hands and 'howdyeing,' two little white children appeared among the black, and each handed a wooden match box (one of which goes with this), saying, 'Won't you please take our Lent money? We had no mite boxes, and no one to send it by.' Among the people of this whole section (Prince Frederic Parish, Pee Dee) there is no one to minister; the semi-annual visits of the archdeacon for colored people are the only occasions when they can have the full services of the Church and the Holy Communion. These dear children of a refined, earnest family of Church people, would not be left out of the ranks of Lenten workers and savers; and so, they invented a chest by cutting a hole in the lid of a match box, and pasting it down. It is indeed a lesson of zeal, and shows how the 'spirit of missions,' now more and more enlivening the children, spreads daily out, even into the vacant corners of the Church. Verily it must be the Spirit of the Holy Child Jesus!"

BISHOP HORDEN OF MOOSONEE.

THE following letter from Bishop Whipple to the Minnesota Missionary will be read with great interest for the story which it tells of the wonderful work of that devoted servant of the Red man, Bishop Horden, but not less as a message from the pen of our own beloved Bishop Whipple, from his bed of suffering just at the time when with a heart full of hope he was taking up the burden of his work:

LETTER FROM BISHOP WHIPPLE.

Lake Maitland, Florida, March 20th, 1893.

DEAR BROTHER:

The Churchman announces that the Right Rev. John Horden, the Bishop of Moosonee, has "entered into rest." I have known few men whom I so dearly loved. Thirty-two years ago, in the dark days of our Indian mission, the Bishop of Rupert's Land, the Right Rev. David Anderson, was present at our diocesan council in Minneapolis. I have always believed that God sent him to deepen in my heart pity and love for the poor Red men. I well remember how it thrilled my heart as I listened to the story of the trials and triumphs of the faithful missionaries of a sister Church, Archdeacon Cowley, Henry Budd and many more. Among them he told the story of the missionary at Hudson's Bay, John Horden, who, in 1872, was consecrated the Bishop of Moosonee.

I do not know the story of his early life. His record shows that very early that life was consecrated to the service of Jesus Christ. He was a teacher in one of the English schools. He and two friends agreed to make missions the subject of daily prayer, and if God opened the way they would devote their lives to missionary work.

His two friends had been called and were laboring in distant missionary fields. He offered himself to the Church Missionary Society. One day he received a letter: "The Bishop of Rupert's Land has asked us to send out a missionary to an important field on Hudson's Bay. He tells us that if we cannot find a man in Orders, he will receive him as a candidate and go to Hudson's Bay and ordain him. The call is very urgent. The field must be occupied at once. The Bishop's letter has been delayed. The only vessel which goes to Hudson's Bay, once a year, leaves next week. We believe you are peculiarly fitted for this work. We think the missionary ought to go out a married man. If you can go we will send you."

The call came as a voice from God. Mr. Horden was not married, but, as he told me, he thought he knew a devoted woman who was ready to devote her life to mission work, and was ready even at a moment's notice to share his labors. They were married.

It was twenty years before he saw England again. The devoted man found a vast field white for the harvest, and the officers and servants of the Hudson's Bay Company gave him their countenance and support.

The Indians far to the North have no land to cultivate, and live by hunting and fishing. They are often subject to great privation. The aged are a burden. He heard a strange story. A son and two daughters said to an aged woman: "Mother, the time has come for you to die." She said, "Let me smoke my pipe." She did smoke, and then the children put a bow-string about her neck and strangled her to death. No wonder the missionary's heart sank within him. "Can these dry bones live?" Can these like brute beasts become members of Christ, out of whom shall flow rivers of living water? In times of great dearth these men had been guilty of cannibalism.

At the missionary's first visit to this degraded tribe he asked if there was any present who had killed his parent, or any who had eaten human flesh. Who can imagine his horror when a number raised their hands!

But nothing daunted, he worked and prayed and wept and prayed. Hard hearts were softened, the image of Christ was seen on these sometime heathen faces, and large numbers of these wandering children of our Father were brought into the Fold of Christ.

The missionaries of the North have perfected a syllabic alphabet, where a letter represents a syllable. It is very simple, and an intelligent Indian can learn to read in a week. It was absolutely necessary that these poor Christians should be carefully taught, and every spare moment of time was devoted to copying for them the Lord's Prayer, the Creed, the Ten Commandments and sentences of the Gospel which would help and comfort these poor souls when on their long hunts. Few Christians are as careful as they to keep "the praying day." These pieces of paper were treasures to the Indian, and were often the means of leading others to "the Lamb of God Who taketh away the sins of the world."

The Bishop had translated the Gospels into the sign language and sent them to England to be printed. The next year he waited with an eager heart for the precious books. At last the ship was announced, and he went to receive the treasure. A number of large, heavy boxes were landed. He opened one, and it was full of cast iron. His heart sank within him. "My books have been sent to some other mission, and I have received their machinery."

He opened his letters. They told him: "You had forgotten that while we could have your books printed in the syllabic characters, there is no one in England who could correct the proof; we have therefore sent you a printing-press and a font of type."

Strange to say, the good Bishop had never seen a printing-press. He had the boxes removed to his office, put up curtains to the windows and made his first venture as a printer. After repeated trials the press was put together, a case was made and each kind of type put by itself. Then the Lord's Prayer was set up, and with a beating heart laid on the press, the roller inked, the sheet struck off—it was perfect; again and again he printed sheet after sheet.

For days the Indians had seen the Bishop go from the office to the house and house to the office absorbed in thought, with lines of anxiety on his face, speaking to no one, and they looked on him with awe, as on one who had become crazed. All Indians have an awe and reverence for the insane as one on whom some spirit has set his mark.

Judge of their joy when the Bishop rushed out with his face radiant and his hands full of the precious leaves, which he scattered to the people and said: "See here! see here what God has done for you!"

For more than forty years this brave Christian hero has lived amid the solitudes of Hudson's Bay, and of him more than any man since apostolic times has it been true: "He who now goeth forth bearing precious seed and weeping shall come again bringing his sheaves with him."

Few men have had more deferred hopes than I have in my labors for the Red men. All that the malice of the Devil or the cupidity of bad white men could do has been done to hinder the work. The long history of robbery, the neglect of government, the evil example of white men, the deadly fire water, have dragged many of this people into a gulf of misery their heathen fathers did not know.

It has often happened that in the darkest hour I received a letter from Bishop Horden which quickened hope and bade me work on and faint not. I remember one letter in which he said: "I am rejoiced to hear good news of your Indian work. I have not had to encounter some of your trials. The influence of the few white men in the country is with me. I have only to meet heathenism, the hardness of the human heart, and God has wonderfully blessed my labors. Most of the Indians in my vast jurisdiction can read in their own language the Word of God. That tribe of which I told you such sad stories have many Christians, and these sad stories of the murder of parents and cannibalism have long passed away."

For some years the dear Bishop has been engaged in translating the Holy Scriptures, which he hoped to finish this winter. In his last letter to me he spoke of the good progress he had made in the work of translation, and how thankfully he looked forward to the end.

The Bishop's children are in England with Mrs. Horden. We have no particulars of his death; it must have been with kindred far away, alone; no, not alone, for his Master, Jesus Christ, Who passed this way before him, was surely with him and guided him safely "to the land afar off, where they see the King in His beauty." Easter will be dearer as we think of the dear Bishop with our own loved ones in Paradise.

I trust some one may write the life of this missionary hero, that it may kindle in young hearts the same passionate devotion to Christ and love for the souls for whom He died.

H. B. WHIPPLE,
Bishop of Minnesota.

THE SPIRIT WHICH HAS EXALTED BRITISH HISTORY.

LORD ROSEBERY, secretary for foreign affairs in the Gladstone cabinet, speaking concerning Uganda, said to the Church Missionary Society deputation:

We—at any rate I—view it as a country of great possibilities, as the key, perhaps, of central Africa, as commanding the Nile basin, as a field recently of heroic enterprise, as a land that has been watered by the blood of our saints and martyrs; and I, for one, as a Scotchman, can never be indifferent to a land which witnessed the heroic exploits of Alexander Mackay, that Christian Bayard, whose reputation will always be dear not only in his own immediate northern country, but throughout the empire at large. Gentlemen, I say that, whereas we view Uganda from all these different aspects, in my opinion you represent the greatest force of all, because you represent what Mr. Bosworth Smith eloquently called that continuity of moral policy which Great Britain cannot afford, at any time or in any dispensation, to disregard. That continuity of moral policy is a moral force by which, in my opinion, this country has to be judged. It is the salt which savors our history; it is a spirit which has exalted it; and it is by that when we have passed away that, in my belief, we shall come to be judged.

DOMESTIC MISSIONS.

Form of a Bequest to Domestic Missions.

I give, devise, and bequeath, to the Domestic and Foreign Missionary Society of the Protestant Episcopal Church in the United States of America, for Domestic Missions

Should it be desired, the words can be added: To be used for work among the Indians, or for work among Colored People.....

THE CHURCH IN THE WEST.

In the course of seven weeks which we recently spent together among chapters of the Brotherhood of St. Andrew in the West, there were borne in upon us certain conclusions about the work of the Church in that part of the country, which we venture to present to the consideration of those who read St. Andrew's Cross.

Much has been written to prove that in the near future the West is to dominate the East. Even to the casual observer, who crosses the Mississippi for the first time, this seems a possibility. The immense area, the boundless resources and the restless energy of the West all point to a time when the centre of the wealth and population of the country shall no longer cling closely to the Atlantic seaboard, but shall be found on the further side of the great Father of Waters.

Mere mention of statistics or square miles can give no adequate idea of the vastness of the West. But by comparison a true estimate of its extent may be gained. The new State of Montana contains nearly 150,000 square miles. This means that, if transferred to the East, it would reach from New York to Toledo on the west and to the southern boundary of Virginia on the south. The long California coast becomes a vivid reality when, measured on the Atlantic, it reaches from New York to Florida. Move the population of the world into Texas alone and every man, woman and child would have one-tenth of an acre. twenty-two states and territories west of the Mississippi embrace fully two-thirds of the total area of the country.

It would be difficult to overstate the natural wealth of the West. From the wheat fields of the Dakotas and the forests of Washington to the cotton and sugar plantations of Texas and the orange groves of California, almost every natural product which ministers to the need or comfort of man may be found. Untold stores of mineral wealth, coal and iron, lead and copper, silver and gold, lie locked in the earth waiting the turning of the key which shall release them from their prison and send them out to supply the needs of a world.

But above and beyond all this the West is rich in a sturdy manhood. From the North, South and East, and from the lands beyond the sea, have come men of splendid hardiness. Obstacles have not affrighted nor difficulties daunted them. They have built busy cities; they have won back from the desert by irrigation what are now some of the most productive lands in the world; they have built railroads through the wilderness and over mountain ranges; they have harnessed the power of rushing rivers and turned it to their use. Superior to all adversity and circumstance, they have compelled success. They are making a mighty effort to create a great civilization. Old ruts and old traditions they have left behind. This is a receptive and formative period in the commonwealths which they are building. Men and things are tried upon their merits. All else counts for nothing. Who shall measure the possibilities of such a people in such a land?

Now, the question that we have put to each other is this: What shall be the part of the Apostolic Church in moulding and guiding, with its constructive forces, the developing life of this new empire?

These forces have been and are at work. Grand men have lived and died in applying them. The Church's pioneers to-day in Episcopate and Priesthood are nobly following their example. In less than sixty years twelve dioceses and fourteen missionary districts have been set apart in the territory west of the Mississippi. They now contain 76,000 communicants, or about one-seventh of the total number in the Church. Wise leadership and faithful work have laid solid foundations.

Still, all that has been done seems but little when compared with what must still be done. Except in a few places the Church does not rank with some of the other Christian bodies in numbers, equipment or activity. The responsibility for the future of the Church in the West does not lie wholly with western Churchmen. In spite of the great advance during the last fifty years the West is still largely a missionary field.

It does not require great insight even for such hurried travellers as we were forced to be to see something of the present needs of the field. We wish we could put them before the men of the Church with something of the force with which they came to us. There are needs which they can and must supply; there are hindrances which they can and must remove.

Above everything else the Church in the West needs men. Putting aside the vital question of an increase in the Missionary Episcopate, the Church needs men to minister at her altars and to proclaim her message. She needs choice men-men of high ability and consecrated character-men who, by virtue of their own strong manliness, can take their places and hold their own in the manly life of the West. needs men with that rare quality which one of our Bishops has happily called "Church statesmanship." During the next few years there should come forth an increasing number of men who will resolutely set their faces against the attractions of eastern parishes and give their lives to make a glorious future for the Church in the West.

But whatever the conditions of the past have required or the exigencies of the present and immediate future demand, every effort must be made to develop a native clergy. A Priesthood with a love for the West which only birth and home training can give will most readily and effectually reach the people of the West. Western life is still pre-eminently material. It is a money-seeking life in a money-making age. But a new generation is growing up, and from its ranks the Church must seek to enlist officers for the King's army. They will know the West intuitively; they will understand its peculiarities and will know best how to meet them; they will be one with the people and will know best how to win them. A native clergy for the future, however, can only be made possible by a missionary clergy in the present. The men who go to the West now will not only be laying the foundations of strong parishes and dioceses; theirs will be the privilege of arousing and training the clergy of the future.

Besides men in Orders, the Church in the West needs consecrated laymen, who will take their places in every-day affairs, and prove that a devoted Christian life is not inconsistent with active business. Far too many men who were known as Churchmen in the East are sadly lacking in their duty as Churchmen in the West. The ability and energy which have enabled them to win home and fortune in a new land have too rarely been placed at the command of the Church.

The Church in the West needs money. There is unquestionably great wealth bevond the Mississippi. Much of it is in the hands of men and women who are living for money only. Some of it is in the hands of Church people, but unfortunately it is not yet fully consecrated for use in the Kingdom of which they are citizens. Some of it is in the hands of people who do consecrate it; the people of the Missionary District of Montana gave for missions in 1892 more in proportion than the people of any one of twenty eastern dioceses. But even if every western Churchman were giving every cent he could the total would fall far short of the amount the Church should be spending in developing its missionary work.

One vital error in our missionary system should be corrected. We set off certain immense districts over which we place godly, self-sacrificing men as Missionary Bishops. Then, instead of sending them such supplies as shall enable them to carry on a vigorous campaign, we make their work grinding and retard the progress of the Church by compelling them to raise, by personal efforts, outside of their jurisdictions, a large part of the money they need. The self-support which St. Paul had to provide would seem to be a light burden compared with what a Missionary Bishop has to bear. While his own stipend is provided, he has constantly on his mind a family of from twelve to twenty or thirty clergymen for whose maintenance he is obliged to make himself, in part at least, responsible. If he feels the need of a school in which the children shall be built up in the Church, or of a church building at some important point, he must in some way get a large part of the money himself. It is not sufficient that he write to the Board of Missions, state the need and ask for help, because we do not furnish the Board with the sinews of war. The result is, each of our Missionary Bishops must each year travel thousands of miles and spend much valuable time in pleading the needs of his field in private interview and public meeting. If he interests or amuses us by the accounts he gives of his work, perhaps we make a small contribution to it. This method is entirely and eternally wrong. It lowers the standard of giving. It really means giving to Bishop So-and-So's work. Not only this, but it compels the absence of the Bishop from his jurisdiction for a good part of each year. Meanwhile the work cannot be pushed on or new fields opened up rapidly enough to meet the growth of the country.

Dr. Langford, the General Secretary of the Board of Missions, writing from the mission field in the summer of 1891, referred to the necessity of a large amount of travelling by the Missionary Bishops over their several jurisdictions, and said: "This necessity has its compensation, since no other itinerant than the Bishop can so well represent the Church to the people," Nothing could be truer, yet for several months in the year we prevent these Bishops from representing the Church to their people. If the time which we compel them to spend away from their posts in seeking the means of carrying on their work were spent on the field, with relief from financial cares. the Church would make much greater advances among the people. The Bishop could then spend a week or two at a time. instead of a day or two, in some place without a pastor, gathering the people together. instructing them in the Church, welding them into a congregation, and so hastening the time when they should be able to do their full duty in extending the Kingdom.

Not only does our failure to properly provide for the missionary field retard the work, but it brings disrespect upon the high office of the Bishop. He becomes, in the eyes of his people, less a father in God and more a raiser of money. "Our Bishop is a perfect hustler for getting money in the East," was the way we heard one man express it.

Now, the apostolic office is not a moneyraising office. We read that the first Apostles refused to have a similar burden put upon them. "It is not reason that we should leave the Word of God and serve tables. But we will give ourselves continually to prayer and to the ministry of the Word." The Apostolic Church should follow the apostolic precedent. The laymen should be serving the tables. The Church of to-day much more than the Church of the first century needs "men of honest report, full of the Holy Ghost and of wisdom," who may be appointed over this matter.

A striking instance of what a layman can do in this way may be found in one of the eastern dioceses. A certain layman, who happens to be a member of the Brotherhood of St. Andrew, had his attention called two years ago to the needs of the diocesan mission field. Contributions to the diocesan fund were inadequate and the work was languishing. He quietly took it upon himself to improve matters. Each Saturday and Sunday of the following summer he spent in visiting and inspecting the mission stations of the diocese. When the fall brought people home from their vacations and the churches began to fill up again for the winter, he had prepared a chart of the diocese, showing where and how money could be best expended. With the approval of his Bishop, he went before the congregations of the diocese, told them what he had seen and how they could help to right things. The result has been an increase in that mission fund from about $9,000 to $20,000 a What one man has done for the mission fund of a diocese, surely others can do for the mission fund of the Church. should not the Board of Missions have under its direction a staff of laymen-volunteers if possible, salaried men if necessary whose special work should be to visit the dioceses and parishes, keeping our people informed about the progress and needs of missions at home and abroad and raising the funds to meet those needs?

Not until the laymen awake to the duty of themselves raising money for missions will the Church be able to proclaim to all the people the glorious Gospel of God.

Free the hands and hearts of our hard-working missionaries, supply them with the means to carry on their work, and soon these waste places will be self-sustaining. They must be built up from the inside by men on the spot, who know the life, the temptations, and the possibilities of their people, who will win a native clergy and create an active laity. This will be constructive Churchmanship.

Whatever is done should be done quickly. One man now is worth five men twenty years hence. One dollar now is worth ten dollars ten years from now. Will the men of the Church respond to the Church's call?—Silas McBee and John W. Wood, in St. Andreu's Cross.

MISSIONARY INTELLIGENCE.

OREGON. — Encouraging Missionary Returns.-The rector of Grace Church, Astoria, which was a mission station of this Board when the present Bishop first went to Oregon, sends to the treasury of the Board this year a Lenten offering from the children of his charge of $231. The rector of St. David's Church, East Portland, which was established as a mission after the present Bishop went there, sends to the same offering $120. The rector of the Church of the Redeemer, Pendleton, whose church ceased to be a mission station four years ago, sends $125. This aggregate sum of $476, contributed under such circumstances, conveys a lesson of encouragement and inspiration of great value to all who love and labor for the missionary cause of the Church.

WYOMING AND IDAHO.—Lewiston, Idaho.—Prior to 1879 the services and ministrations of the Church to the people of this place were very meagre and fitful. It seems to have been the good fortune of the people of this region to have enjoyed the privileges of the Church only when some itinerant missionary chanced to come this way.

In the year 1879 the Rev. Dr. R. D. Nevius undertook the spiritual care of this important field, with Lewiston as the centre of operations, and continued the work until the spring of 1881, when Bishop Tuttle made a visitation and was so favorably impressed with the importance of the point, the need of regular ministrations and the outlook, that he determined to secure and place a clergyman here permanently, and with that object in view he without delay organized a mission to be known as the Church of the Nativity, and placed in charge the Rev. J. D. McConkey, who had resigned the rectorship of St. Paul's Church, Walla Walla, Washington, and had founded and was successfully operating a boys' day and boarding-school, besides doing missionary work on Sundays at Pendleton and Weston. Mr. McConkey, at the earnest solicitation of Bishop Tuttle, gave up his educational and missionary work in Washington and took charge of the new mission with his home at Lewiston. Realizing the importance of the work intrusted to him in this town, his services have been principally confined to it, with occasional visits to parts adjacent, such as Moscow, Genesee, Lapwai, Cottonwood, Grangeville, and Mount Idaho.

As no suitable place was at command in which to hold services, and building was out of the question, just then, a vacant log house of pioneer days was rented, a part fitted up as a place for worship, and a part as a domicile for the missionary. In that rough, temporary structure the work was carried on for ten years with such success that an effort was made to build a church. A desirable site was secured and a commodious and churchly edifice erected thereon.

The nave of the church is 30x50, with a chancel 16x20, giving a seating capacity of 250. The interior is finished with California red wood and yellow pine, artistically arranged, placed alternately and running diagonally. The windows are of stained glass, made and imported expressly for this church by Mayer and Co. of Munich, London, and New York, and with three exceptions are memorials. The east and west windows are handsome specimens of artistic work; the chancel window representing the Nativity, and the opposite, the Good Shepherd. The altar and chancel furniture are gifts from Mrs. Gray, in memory of her beloved husband, the late Rev. Dr. Geo. Z. Gray, Dean of the Theological School, Cambridge, Massachusetts, of which school Mr. McConkey is a graduate. The church has cost, $5,000 thus far, and there are some necessary improvements yet to be made.

SEMI-ANNUAL EXAMINATIONS AT ST. JOHN'S COLLEGE AND PRE-PARATORY SCHOOLS, SHANGHAI.

UNDER date of March 17th the Rev. E. H. Thomson, Archdeacon of Shanghai, sends an account of the examinations at St. John's College, the medical school, and St. Mary's Hall, for the half-year ending with February. Mr. Thomson writes that "the general work of the college has gone on very smoothly under the excellent rules established by the Rev. Mr. Pott as head-master. . . It is impossible for me not to express my appreciation of Mr. Pott's capacity for work. The amount which he was able to accomplish was simply surprising." Mr. Thomson also says: "It gives me pleasure to say how well and faithfully the Rev. Mr. Yu-tang Chu, as assisting Presbyter-in-charge, has done his work. It would have been out of my power to undertake to hold the place for Mr. Pott in his absence, except for Mr. Chu."

The written examinations of the junior department of the college in general modern history, of the second class in the preparatory department in general ancient history (Peter Parley's) and of the first class in the same department in physical geography were conducted by the Rev. J. Lambert Rees, B.S., of the London mission, who writes in terms of commendation of the papers submitted, and says the amount of accurate historical knowledge displayed by the students in the collegiate department would do credit to many who study in American or European colleges, and adds: "The papers on physical geography, written as they were by Chinese boys, were especially significant. One could not help contrasting the knowledge which these lads displayed of the constitution of the earth.

its geological formations, its relation to the other heavenly bodies and the changes now going on on its surface, with the blankness in the minds of many of the literati and high officials on these subjects."

The second class of the preparatory department was examined orally by Mr. Rees in reading, spelling, dictation, composition, geography, history, mental arithmetic, and English grammar; in all these subjects the pupils showed creditable proficiency. The first class was also examined (orally) in general mediæval history, physiology, algebra. natural history, and composition. class showed a high standard of attainment in all the subjects. English composition is perhaps one of the hardest subjects for Chinese boys. Mr. Rees concludes his report by saying: "Such education as is imparted at St. John's cannot but tell on the progress of China. It is to be hoped that institutions like this will be multiplied. For having, as we have here. Christian teaching combined with a thorough training in western education, the power of the Gospel must become more prominently felt than it would otherwise be, and the time when China will be christianized will certainly be hastened."

Dr. Percy Mathews conducted the examination of the three divisions of the fourth class in English, under Mr. Zung-tse; the first division, comprising four boys, was examined in reading. The meanings of the words were correctly given, the spelling was good, and the translating from English into the colloquial and vice versa was apt and evidenced careful training.

The six boys in the second division were examined in the same studies, but not being so far advanced, only four of them did well; but the translating of Chinese and English passages showed that the lads were being intelligently taught. The dictation was fairly good and the compositions deserved praise.

The four boys of the third division did well in reading, spelling, translating words, defining and dictation, but the compositions were poor. An hour was given to each division, and Dr. Mathews writes: "There is every evidence of good, honest work, and careful training;" and adds: "These lads are being taught in a foreign language, and it is most important that this fact should be recognized."

The Rev. Mr. Yen and Mr. Chu examined six classes-under three teachers-in the Chinese language and literature, and two other classes of post-graduates under a fourth teacher. The Chinese course alternated daily with English, and all the teachers are graduates of the college. Recitations memoriter and translations from the classical into the vernacular were gone through with in the usual way. Mr. Yen writes that boys will put more energy into English studies than into Chinese; partly because the former are more interesting and the teachers more apt. "In a word," he says, "we have a literature, but no text-books; literary men, but no teachers. Nevertheless, there is no escape from the present antiquarian system because our people believe in it, or rather, know no better." The plan of an advanced Chinese course for postgraduates to meet the need of the times was put in operation during the past year and has worked to the satisfaction of all. Eleven lads were in the class, most of them bright and having a taste for learning; one of them has left to open an Anglo-Chinese school in Nan-zing while another has joined the medical class under Dr. Boone.

The Rev. Yu-tang Chu reports that the examination of four students of western science in the Chinese language was both written and oral, the subjects being the practical working of the different kinds of electricity, the appliances for obtaining electrical light and other electrical experiments, in all of which they did exceedingly well. The next class of ten had a written examination on the laws of chemical affinity, combinations of nitrogen, chlo-

Two of the students did rine, etc. very well, being marked above ninety; six were not so good and two were quite backward. Four had a written examination; only one, however, reached ninety; two of the others had been sick during the term, and the fourth was "a very little fellow who could not vet manage the difficult writing." There are in all seventy-six pupils, their studies being physical geography, science catechism, geology, etc. Mr. Chu says: "Thirteen did splendidly, eight very good, the others fairly well. . . . Explanation is to the boys the most difficult part of their work. Many of the boys are young, and as these books are in the classical and not in the spoken language, it is very difficult to understand what is meant. . . These books on science must be of great benefit to the boys of my country, not only giving them a knowledge of the world, but also a knowledge of the One God, the Lord Almighty, His laws working without confusion among the stars of heaven and the whirlwind and rain, the lightning and thunder. They learn that these powers are not gods, for that is what they have been taught of old. . . . They can see that these laws work out good to man and thus show the law of God in all things."

The Rev. Mr. Woo was present during the examination of the St. John's boys in the New Testament in Wen-li, and also in the Wen-li Commentary on the Apostle's Creed (by the Rev. Mr. Pott), and expressed his pleasure in the following terms: "I noted thirty-five boys who are studying the Commentary on the Apostle's Creed, and forty boys studying the New Testament. They all seem to be well drilled both in the recitations and explanations; only a few who were not well up in their studies. I judge every young man in St. John's College must have been studying the Bible and other Christian books. Certainly our St. John's College has done much in spreading the Name of Jesus Christ and His doctrine amongst the middle class of people through the large number of young men who are educated yearly in the college. Although the numbers are small of those who join the Church during their school-days, yet I think more of them will join the Church of Christ in future. . . . The boarding and day-schools of our Church certainly do a good share in spreading the Gospel of Christ; perhaps even more effectively than our preachings in the street chapels to the passers-by. May God bless all the teachers for their patient work for these young Chinese! Some day the Church will reap a good harvest from their faithful service."

Mr. S. E. Smalley reports upon classes III B. and IV A., in charge of Mr. Pow Nion Tsu, formerly a pupil at St. John's. The plan of having the junior classes taught by the graduates of the college, has been so far a success in every way, and the examination proved that the teacher had been taught how to teach and how to conduct a class. In class III B., seven boys were examined in reading, spelling, dictation, grammar and geography. Of the latter study Mr. Smalley writes: "Our boys seem to like this study more than any other, but why this is so is not easy to explain. Perhaps it is because that China, big and populous as it is, is not the whole earth. . . . Composition, that bête noir to the Chinese student of English was our next subject, One or two of the essays were fairly done, and taking them as a whole they showed improvement upon former years. Questions in English grammar were answered well, and the copy-books were neat scrupulously clean.

"In class IV A., thirteen boys were examined. Their reading was very good considering they have been studying English so short a time; spelling and dictation were both good, and the geography, as usual, excellent. The sentences for composition were short, to the point, and for the most part grammatically correct. If Mr. Tsu continues this plan of getting these younger boys to write sentences correctly, our work in the upper classes will be considerably lessened when the junior boys become the seniors."

Mr. Smalley concludes by saying: "I am sure if the late Miss Spencer could revisit her old pupils' school-room, she would feel amply repaid for all the pains, time, and trouble she had taken."

ST. MARY'S HALL.

Mrs. Smalley reports upon the English classes in St. Mary's, and having before taught in the school, is able to speak of a marked improvement. Miss Dodson had begun a class of younger girls, and these have made great progress. Mrs. Smalley writes that "they read with great expression and translated from English into Chinese very well, thus showing that they thoroughly understood what they had read. They also pointed out places on the map, and answered questions in elementary geography, all in English and very nicely."

The first class, taught by Miss Dodson, was examined in English grammar, history, reading, spelling and dictation, and their compositions were handed around for inspection. The second class showed improvement, and that they must have been very carefully taught to make such progress, as they were neither very studious nor very bright. The pupils in music, under the tuition of Mrs. Massie and a young Chinese lady, had made great improvement and rendered some difficult pieces well. After the examination was over, teachers, pupils and visitors adjourned to the chapel, where Archdeacon Thomson distributed the prizes with a few words of kindly counsel and congratulation. The highest prize-for obedience, neatness, gentleness and unselfishness-was taken by the smallest girl in the school.

THE MEDICAL SCHOOL.

The young men were examined in physiology by the Rev. Mr. Yen; in materia medica by Dr. Mathews, and in a Chinese work on anatomy, by the native teacher, Mr. Yung-kong Sung-all difficult studies in English, but in Chinese still more exacting to the mind and memory. The illness of Dr. Boone, head of the school, and the long pressure of continuous examinations "seemed," Mr. Thomson wrote, "to cast a feeling of effort over all present, but the young men did fairly well-one of them very well." These students attend the clinics at St. Luke's Hospital every afternoon. One of them has been passed by Dr. Boone, and will act as medical assistant at St. John's under Dr. Mathews, and one of the college graduates will take the vacated place in the medical class.

DR. LEGGE, the eminent Chinese scholar, now connected with Oxford University, says: "I have been reading Chinese books for more than forty years, and any general requirement to love God, or the mention of any one as loving Him, has yet to come for the first time under my eye,"

TRINITY DIVINITY-SCHOOL AND LIBRARY, AND TRINITY PARISH HOUSE, TOKYO, JAPAN.

THIS building, of pressed brick with stone and terra-cotta trimmings, of which a representation is given at the right-hand side of this month's frontispiece, occupies the front end of the corner lot, No. 53 Tsukiji, Tokyo. The general style is a free, modern Gothic. Its extreme dimensions are from north to south, fronting on the main street of the Foreign Concession, ninety feet, and from east to west forty-eight feet. The groundfloor is divided into eight apartments, all opening into a central passage or hallway. eight feet wide, access to which is had by a front entrance about midway in the façade, and directly from the dormitories in the rear by a covered passageway, twenty feet in length, leading to the entrance of the main corridor of the dormitories, which are two stories in height, built in a modified Japanese style, and afford accommodations for forty-eight boarders. Immediately at the left of the main entrance is a receptionroom, 12x15 feet, where students receive their visitors, the rules of the school prohibiting the admission of such to the dormitories except in case of sickness. On the right is a reading-room 15x15 feet opening into the library beyond, an octagonal room, on a diameter of twenty-four feet lighted by two large gable windows and a roof-lantern, elevated so as to admit the sun's rays throughout the day, though the room occupies the northeast corner of the building. The shelves are carried around the outer walls, from which they are isolated by an enclosed air space, and, to ensure more perfect ventilation for the books as a protection from mould, the shelves are serrated on the back, allowing the air to circulate freely. From six angles of the octagon shelves radiate toward the centre, until they meet the pillars supporting the roof-lantern. library contains a total of 3,600 linear feet of shelving and should accommodate about 20,000 volumes. Back of the library and communicating with it by a doorway, is a room 15x18 feet to be used as a study by those wishing an opportunity for quiet consultation of books of reference. The remainder of the ground floor is occupied by the hallway and four classrooms each 15x 18 feet. Two of these may be thrown into one by means of folding doors, as occasion demands, for chapel use or otherwise.

In the upper story are four rooms, two of which are 15x18 feet each, opening from this hallway and with separate entrances from the tower in the southeastern corner of the building.

Each room in the building has its own open fireplace, those on the lower floor of the ventilating type, admitting warmed fresh air from the outside through ducts with controlling valves, and discharging impure air with the smoke at the tops of the chimneys.

This is the first building in Japan in which terra-cotta has been used. It was all made to order in Tokyo after special designs furnished. All the materials used in constructing the building, with the exception of the hardware and glass, are of native production. The use of terra-cotta has been emphasized by pointing in red mortar around the windows and in the coping at gables and cornices, the rest of the brickwork being pointed in alight gray cement.

The building at the left hand side of the frontispiece is the parish house connected with the work of Trinity Church, which occupies a lot of ground directly opposite across the street. The main audience half is thirty-three feet square, with a semicircular gallery occupying two sides of the room. This main hall opens, under the gallery, into three class-rooms, two of which are 12x15 feet each, and the corner room, including the first story of the tower, is 15x15 feet. These three rooms are contiguous and may, by sliding the folding partitions into pockets, be converted into one room. By raising sash partitions and opening doors, they may be opened into the main room, giving their occupants command, both by sight and hearing, of the stage or platform, which is located in the corner of the main hall diagonally opposite the tower. Hallways, eight feet wide with entrances from the east front and the south side doors respectively, separate these rooms from the two large class-rooms occupying the northeast and southwest corners of the buildings respectively, the former being fifteen feet square, the latter 15x21 feet. From these hallways steps lead to the gallery, which projects a distance of nine feet into the main room, and is carried back over the ceilings of the class-rooms and hallways six feet, giving a width of fifteen feet and furnishing seats for about 200, all of which command a view of the speaker on the platform. This gives a total seating capacity, not including the two corner class-rooms, of about 600.

It is proposed to heat the building during the short winter by hot water, circulating in exposed pipes, the heater being located under the platform, and the metal smoke flue carried under the floor to the tower, inclosed in a brickwork duct large enough to allow fresh air to circulate around the pipe and become well heated before it is delivered into the room.

The walls of the parish house are of common brick, trimmed with very little stone, and with polished brick around the windows and doorways. They are carried up in this material to the level of the eaves, and the gables and tower are finished in half-timber work, filled in with shingles, cut to pattern, and painted. The roof is of slate with ornamental ridge tiling and metal finials. The tower is carried up three stories in height, the upper one open, and its "saddle back" roof is capped with a spire so constructed as to act as an automatic ventilator. Into this will be led the smoke flue from the heater. In the second story of the tower is provided a store-room, for the convenient keeping of photographic slides and the apparatus for their projection on a screen, the building being well adapted for such exhibitions, the distance from the gallery rail to a screen, hung across the platform, allowing a picture eighteen feet in diameter to be thrown upon the screen in sight of the whole audience.

The cost of Trinity Parish House, when entirely completed, will be $4,800. Of this amount $1,202 has come from "specials." There is still owing: For the cost of the lot (to another fund), $892.00; loans from two friends in the field, $2.846.00, and required to complete the remaining wing, and for the heating apparatus, $860,00.

The land and buildings for the divinity-school, costing altogether $10,500 United States gold (with the exception of $1,000 appropriated by the Board)were given by a friend in the field.

ANNOUNCEMENTS.

Africa—In recent letters the Right Rev. Dr. Ferguson informs the Board of the reappointment of Mr. J. J. Perry as teacher of St. Mark's Parish School, Cape Palmas, in place of Mr. E. W. McKrae, relieved from active duty on account of ill-health, and of the reappointment of Mr. E. Z. B. Jones as teacher in St. John's School, Cape Mount.

China—The Rev. Frederick R. Graves, D.D., Missionary Bishop-elect of Shanghai and the Yang-tse Valley, sailed from Shanghai on the 6th of May by the steamer "Empress of India," and arrived at Vancouver on the 23d of the same month.

—The Rev. H. Clinton Collins, M.D., under appointment as missionary to Hankow, left New York on Thursday, May 11th, expecting to sail from San Francisco for Shanghai by the steamer "Oceanic" on the 23d.

-Miss Florence MacRae, who sailed from Vancouver March 6th, arrived at Shanghai on the 25th of that month, and on the 4th of April proceeded to her station at Wuchang.

—Acting for the Ecclesiastical Authority, the Board of Managers, at its meeting on the 9th instant, appointed Miss Georgia E. Starr for a term of seven years as teacher of English in St. John's College, Shanghai. She will be accompanied to the field by her mother and younger sister, who will voluntarily assist in the work in St. Mary's Orphanage, and otherwise. Mrs. Starr and her daughters propose to sail in August with the Rev. F. L. H. Pott and family.

Japan.—The Rev. John McKim, D:D.. Bishop-elect of the Missionary Jurisdiction of Yedo, in company with his wife and youngest child, sailed from Yokohama by the steamer "Belgic" on April 8th, and arriving at San Francisco on the 22d proceeded, five days later, to Nashotah, Wisconsin, which will be his address for the present.

LORD WOLSELEY ON THE CHINESE

THE Strand Magazine, of London, has published an interview with Lord Wolseley in which the great English general said that "he believes the Chinese to be the greatest race in the world. They possess all the elements of being a great people; they have courage, physical power and absolute contempt for death. To-day in that country soldiering is looked down upon; only the 'failures in life' enter the army. Let a Bismarck or a Napoleon rise up amongst them, and in two generations they would be the greatest nation and conquering power in the world. They only need a leader. Give them progress and they will conquer. Three hundred years ago they were the head of the world, but their growth was stunted. China wants a modern man with modern ambitions. Let their leader come, and they must revive again. So great is their aptitude for learning that I should be glad to have a force of Chinamen here, where, under the tuition of English infantry officers, in one year they would turn out the finest soldiers in the world."

AFRICA.

THE ELIZA F. DRURY STATION.

BISHOP FERGUSON, in a recent report on this station, writes: "The work has gone on uninterruptedly here since our last report on it. Mr. J. A. Kae Russell is still in charge, and continues to manifest interest in it. This is the only station in these parts that has not as yet had to suspend operations on account of the present war between the Liberian Government and some of the native tribes.

"In the agricultural department attention is still being given to the cultivation of coffee and cocoa, as well as the ordinary garden vegetables. The teacher reports 800 growing coffee-trees, of which about 100 are bearing. His success with cocoa has not been as good. Twenty trees are reported, a few of which are bearing.

"The evangelistic work is carried on as usual, but with little apparent result. There was an encouraging indication a few months ago, when the tribe made a law to abstain from work on the Lord's Day; but their goodness was like the morning cloud and early dew. They did not continue long in well doing. King Kuo, however, seems favorably disposed with regard to Christianity. He sometimes goes around his village in person to call the people together at the time for preaching.

The catechist thinks polygamy is his only barrier to putting on Christ in Baptism, and so too with some others; but my opinion is that when the truth really reaches their hearts it, with every other evil, must yield to its mighty influence. This blessed thought is beautifully expressed in the lines of John Newton.

"As by the light of opening day The stars are all concealed, So earthly pleasures fade away When Jesus is reveal'd.

"Creatures no more divide my choice, I bid them all depart; His name, and love, and gracious voice Shall fix my roving heart.

"We need to pray then most earnestly that the hearts of this people may be brought under the full influence of the Holy Spirit.

"The work of school-teaching has received attention. There are still twelve boarding-pupils under instruction, according to the teacher's report.

"May God bless all the scholarship pupils and all the other children gathered into the different schools, crowning the efforts put forth in their behalf with such abundant success that the highest hopes of their supporters and all the friends of the mission may be realized, to the glory of His great Name and the salvation of benighted Africa. Amen."

CHINA.

EASTER AT HANKOW.

THE Rev. James A. Ingle, writing on Monday in Easter Week, April 3d, of the Easter services in St. John's Church, Hankow, says: "The church was not decorated except for the flowers above the communion table. Still, it looked bright and pretty with the sun pouring in at the windows when we had Morning Prayer at nine o'clock. The choristers were resplendent in fresh white cottas and sang with a vim that eemed to show appreciation of the occasion. This service is usually attended only by the schools and employees, but yesterday, even at this early hour, we had others.

"The main service of the day was at eleven o'clock. I told Deacons Hwang and Wang to bring their people, and they began to assemble early. Mr. Hwang's people have quite a distance to come, a couple of miles I should think, counting the turnings, and for the women, whose pitiful little feet are not fitted for walking, it is quite an undertaking. By eleven o'clock, however, the body of the church was quite filled with men and boys, and the transepts nearly filled with women and girls. It was, of course, impossible to count them, but we probably had between five and six hundred There was no disorder. Of course people. now and then a baby would give voice to its feelings in a slightly irregular although perfectly natural way, but the assistants from all three congregations were present, and had things well in hand. These men are employed to assist the Deacons and evangelists in instructing those who wish to be baptized, and to keep up intercourse with the Church-members, visiting them in their homes and seeing that they do not drift away from the Church. So of course they know the people better than the rest of us. That knowledge proved useful yesterday. A man came forward to receive the Holy Communion. A word and a look from one assistant to another; nobody recognized him and he was stopped. He turned out to be an unsophisticated outsider who was following the crowd.

"During the service I baptized twentyseven persons, namely, sixteen men, three women and eight boys. All of these are Mr. Hwang's converts. He is not only very active and zealous but very successful. There were others who wished to be baptized at the same time, but the task of examining them is so wearying that I prefer to take them in smaller bodies and do the work more thoroughly. Hankow is the business centre which draws its people from scores of cities and villages, many of whom speak with an accent which makes their words almost unintelligible to me, and they have difficulty in understanding me. Then, too, the physical labor involved in baptizing forty or fifty people (in Chinese) is worth taking into consideration.

"I have not yet undertaken public preaching, and much as I longed to speak yesterday, I had to forego it. Each of the three Deacons made a short address. Afterward, a collection was made: the first in St. Paul's (not St. Luke's) Church. We got a little over 2.300 cash, equal to nearly $2.00 gold. was announced that it was for the poor. intend, as soon as possible, to have regular collections. I think the plan for its distribution, suggested by one of the Deacons, is the best, which is to have one or two stated times, at which the money collected in this way shall be spent for rice. In this way the lists of applicants can be duly scanned and the most needy and most worthy selec-It has disadvantages, as needs are not limited to the times we designate, but on the other hand, a constant stream of supplicants for charity, is a thing not to be thought of. This plan seems to me to promise well, and I believe it is already in use with some missionaries.

"This duty of looking after one's own poor neighbors and fellow-Christians I am very anxious to impress on the minds of my people. It is hard to make them realize that the money in my hands was not given me for charity, but to preach the Gospel. Most of our people are poor, very poor, but some are able to spare a little, and I shall not rest till I have disabused them of the idea that the foreign missionary's main duty is to lend or give money.

"We had between eighty and ninety at Holy Communion, fewer than I had hoped for. In the afternoon Mr. Partridge preached for us to a fairly numerous congregation, many of them having waited from the morning service to hear him.

"I was specially glad to have so many women yesterday. Their attendance has fallen off since Mrs. Hadley left us. A foreign lady will attract them as nothing else can."

THE Rev. F. S. Arnot, who has been across Africa, says that he found everywhere among the people the conception of a Supreme Power and a future beyond death, so that there are these instincts universally to appeal to in missionary work.

INTERCESSION.

It is expected that during this month the Rev. Dr. F. R. Graves, Bishop-elect of Shanghai, and the Rev. Dr. John McKim, Bishop-elect of Yeddo, will be consecrated, and that before the end of summer they will set sail for their fields of work. We commend them and their missions to the earnest prayers of the Church.

AMONG THE SWEDES,

OF 700,000 Swedes in Minnesota and the Dakotas, only 100,000 are identified with any form of organized Christianity. Accustomed, as most of them have been, to episcopal government and liturgical worship in the National Church of Sweden, they form a very promising field for the work of the Church.

A hopeful beginning has been made in Minneapolis. Two missions, one bearing the name of St. Ansgarius, the other that of St. Johannes, officered by Swedes and attended at every service by over 100 people, are in successful operation. Both are paying current expenses. The Rev. Mr. Tofteen, a recently ordained Deacon, is in charge. Several Swedish ministers and large, independent congregations at Litchfield and Cokato, Minnesota, are desirous of being received into the Church.

An interesting sign of the progress of this movement was the presence of 400 Swedes in St. Mark's, Minneapolis, at five o'clock on Christmas morning for the Holy Communion.—St. Andrew's Cross.

THE POWER OF JAPANESE PREACHERS.

PREACHING, or other public speaking, has been but little practised in Japan until very recently. There were no political speeches, of course; since the government was an absolute monarchy, politics and political parties were unknown. The Shinto priests have done but little more than occasionally recite their mythology and appeal to their hearers' patriotism, and though the Buddhist priests have preached more than those of Shintoism they have attached much less importance to preaching than Christian propagandists do, although now they are stirred to activity, and more attention is given to public preaching, as well as private exhortation and the teaching of the young, owing to their present close contact with militant and successful Christianity, and what they themselves speak of "as this energetic, untiring propagandism of Christian missionaries."

Although, however, public speaking was in some measure an unfamiliar art to the Christian converts they are learning to excel in preaching as well as in other things. Indeed, it is characteristic of the Japanese that they not only desire to do equally well what other people do, but if possible to surpass them, and in some things they do surpass them, and preaching is becoming one of these things. The Rev. A. F. King, the principal of St. Andrew's Divinity-school (English), at Tokyo, writes: "It is worthy of note that there is a remarkable possibility in Japanese students; it is astonishing how some of them, in many respects apparently quite unfitted to be evangelists, make, if docile and single-minded, singularly rapid progress, both in the study of theology and in the development of the needful character. We have at present eight students in residence, and, in addition, two former students, who are working in neighboring districts of Tokyo, attend some of the lectures. Four of these are studying Greek, and the two out-students have just begun Hebrew."

So excellent an authority as the Rev. M. L. Gordon, M.D., in his book, "An American Missionary in Japan," says: "It must be conceded that our early Christians took hold of preaching with a great deal of readiness and tact and that they have carried it to a high degree of success. Not a few of them have become inspirers of conduct, real ethical leaders of their people. The best speakers among the missionaries are put to their metal to keep pace with them. Of course the missionary is at a great disadvantage, because he must speak in a language which is not his vernacular and of whose literature he has of necessity but a limited knowledge; but more than one missionary believes that, aside from these disadvantages, the Japanese are naturally better speakers than Americans. They are bright, impulsive, sympathetic, quick to discern an advantage gained, fertile in illustrations, and skilful in applying them—qualities which go far to make up the successful speaker."

Dr. Gordon then gives some very interesting examples of this last quality, but he says: "After all, the secret of the power wielded by these men is not so much in special oratorical gifts as in the new life and exalted purpose with which the religion of Christ has filled them."

UNABLE TO SAY NO.

MR. SWAN, a pastor in Birmingham, England, who knew William Carey intimately, said of him, in an address after his decease: "If he had any defect in his character, I should say that it was that he was too easy. He once said to me, 'Brother Swan, I am not fitted for discipline; I never could say no. I began to preach at Moulton because I could not say no; I went to Leicester because I could not say no; I became a missionary because I could not say no.""

Would that a multitude of disciples might be found with this infirmity of being unable to say "no" to the great commission! The power of weakness is often more serviceable in the Kingdom of God than the power of strength, and man's cannot more useful to the Lord than his can. Of God this great thing is written, that He "cannot lie." What a security for our faith is found in this omnipotent inability. Carlyle, tracing the etymology of the "king" through the German "könig" back to its root, concludes that the king is simply "the man who can"-the one who, being the strongest of his tribe or nation, has seized the reins of power and constituted might the synonym of right. But He to whom belongs the title of "King of kings" once said to a servant of His: "My strength is made perfect in weakness." His worthiness to be crowned King of saints lay quite as much in His Divine inability as in His Divine ability. He could not say "no" to His Father's will. "I have power to lay down My life, and I have power to take it again," he said, thus claiming for Himself what no human being ever assumed before But He immediately adds, "This commandment have I received of my Father." Because of this commandment He was under Divine necessity, and said: "The Son of Man must be lifted up." He could not withhold Himself from the cross. And the more His life prevails in us, the more His will asserts itself in us, the more unable shall we be to decline any service which He enjoins upon us.—Rev. Dr. A. J. Gordon, in the Missionary Review.

AN EPITOME OF THE UNITED STATES.

THE Rev. A. J. Bailey writes in the Home Missionary Magazine concerning the resources of the State of Washington and its remarkable progress and development.

He says: "Probably no other state offers such a variety in climate, scenery, and resources. Puget Sound, large, deep, but too irregular to define, is unique. It surpasses the Hudson in mountain scenery; it has all the charm of the St. Lawrence at the Thousand Isles: it reminds one of the coast of Maine at Mount Desert. It extends north and south, broken into various channels, a distance as great as from Boston to Portland. On its islands and shores are the finest forests in existence. Fir trees, not seldom 300 feet in height, are felled; and upon one cedar stump clustered the Congregational Association, seventy or eighty persons, and were photographed. On its shores apple and prune-trees and all small fruits grow marvellously. Frosts are very late, and the season is, therefore, long. strawberries having been picked in Novem-

"It follows from these varied resources that one industry here can feed another, and the monotony and danger of a 'onecrop' country is avoided. Just behind Seattle and Tacoma the mountains are full of coal, iron, and lime, and their sides are covered with timber. On an island in the sound there is a great seam of iron, extending to the water's edge, so that it can be 'oaded directly on ships. All through the nountains of the north and east gold and silver abound, and many mines are being opened. Here, then, is every sort of natural wealth, and every variety of climate. prodigious heaping up of one feature upon another has made a potential Pennsylvania, an incipent Illinois, a mightier Minnesota, a constructive Colorado, an excellent epitome of the United States.

"Near the finest harbors we can dig silver and gold; with it pay men to build ships from fir (surpassed only by oak); can load them with lumber, ore, wheat, fruit, or fish, and send them by a route several hundred miles the shortest to the most populous nations of the world. The Pacific station of Russia's Siberian railway, to be completed in five years, will be another destination for a regular line of steamers, to follow the lines now plying to the Orient and the South. The Nicaragua canal will give short routes to the Atlantic. Washington is now supplied with four direct competing transcontinental lines; its grain and lumber glut these railways: its coal is merely tickled, and its iron untouched. Shall not such a state be held for Him to whom belongeth the earth and the fulness thereof? In five years its population rose from 75,000 to 350,000,"

A NOBLE ANSWER.

It was the Lord's Word which enabled John Wesley to give such a noble answer to one who would have dissuaded him from carrying out his purpose of going to preach the Gospel to the Indians of Georgia.

"What is this?" said his tempter; "are you one of the knights-errant? How, pray, did you get this Quixotism into your head? You want nothing, have a good provision for life, and a prospect of preferment; and must you leave all this to fight windmills—to convert American savages?"

Wesley calmly replied, "If the Bible be not true, I am as very fool and madman as you can conceive; but if the Bible be of God, I am sober-minded; for He has declared, 'There is no man who hath left house or friends, or brethren, for the Kingdom of God's sake, who shall not receive manifold more in the present time, and in the world to come, life everlasting."

He counted the cost, and he thought, and thought rightly, that he could trust God, that he could not but be in the right way when he was carrying out the commands of his Master. And what he and the generations of missionaries have done, must be done by all who would put on the missionary uniform, enter the ranks of the missionary squadrons. And the men who enter those ranks must be real men; we want no half-hearted men here, none who will turn their backs in the day of battle, none who will succumb to difficulties, none who will endure for a while only, none whose hearts are not wholly given to the Lord, that each one may be able to retain his place as long as nature will allow him to execute faithfully that to which he has engaged himself.—Bishop Horden, of Moosonee.

THE HOSTEL OF ST. LUKE.

WITH the Bishop of London as president, there has been established in London a home in sickness for the clergy and their families, under the title of the Hostel of St. Thirty Bishops are vice-presidents. and there is an influential executive committee. While the charge for an in-patient in the home is two guineas a week, cases for which a smaller fee is taken, or even none at all, are admitted. The honorary secretary is the Rev. W. H. Cooper, the home is in Devonshire Street, W., and the office at the Church House, Westminster. Missionaries and their families are eligible for admission. A large staff of leading London specialists have kindly given their honorary services. When the necessary funds have been subscribed, a special ward for children and a country home for convalescents will be added .- Mission Field.

EXTENSIVE USE OF EDUCATION.

In no mission field is education more powerful for good than in India, and nowhere is it more appreciated by at least the male population. It is gratifying to find that it is so extensively used by the missionaries, as extensively as the resources in money and Christian agents make possible. According to a report of the recent general missionary conference at Calcutta, "male education takes three forms-theological and school training institutions, of which there were only 81, with 1,584 students; Anglo-vernacular schools, which are so popular and influential with the upper classes and higher castes, numbering 460, with 53,564 students; and 4,770 vernacular schools, with 122,193 scholars. But it is in female education that the advance has been most marked, and this, be it noted, is mainly owing to the influence of male education, especially in the Anglo-vernacular schools. The girls' day-schools in 1881 were 1,120, having 40,897 scholars; in 1890 the schools were 1,507, with 62,414 scholars. But it is in zenana instruction that the advance is most marked; for in 1881 the houses open to Christian visitors were 7,302, in which were 9,122 pupils; whilst in 1890, the houses accessible had risen to 40,513."

FALSE ASSERTIONS ABOUT MIS-SIONS.

AT a meeting in behalf of the Society for the Propagation of the Gospel, Knight-Bruce, of Mashonaland, remarked: "There seems to be an idea that those who know most about missions do not support them. My experience has been the opposite. Three of the most distinguished soldiers in connection with Africa, an admiral, a governor, an administrator, are the class of men who support us in Africa. There is a class who must be strongly opposed to missions, namely, those who bring into these countries that which must tend to destroy the poor black people both body and These men must dislike missions soul. with all their hearts: and it would be well if all our active opposition to them were even stronger than it is. We tamely accept what we hear to the disparagement of missions without investigating the truth. More than a year ago one of the most read of the London weekly newspapers published a letter bringing against an African mission, close to the home of the writer, a certain definite charge. It was answered by our offering to pay all expenses in connection with the inquiry, and the value of the time expended. if the writer could prove a single instance of what he had asserted to happen generally. This answer was published in the same paper; but from that day to this nothing has been heard of that man."

THE CHINESE AND FOREIGNERS.

BISHOP SCOTT, of Chefoo, has an article in the Mission Field on the "Growth of the Church in North China." At the conclusion of it he refers to the disturbances which have affected missions in many parts of China during the last two years and says:

"I do not think these betoken any great change of feeling on the part of the natives toward the missionaries and their work. The Chinese have all along objected to the entrance of foreigners, while not feeling any special aversion to their religion as such. The continual and rapid increase in the number of missonaries who travel or reside inland, and the steadily growing influence of the missions, seem to me to account in the most natural and straightforward way for the multiplication of these instances of friction between the Chinese and the foreigners. No doubt it is easy for onlookers to point out details of greater or less importance in which the methods of the missionary work, whether Roman Catholic or other, might be amended, and, by such amendments, possibly some of the more plausible causes of complaint might be removed. But when it is realized that the number of communicants connected with the various (non-Roman) missions in the country rose in twelve years from 12,-000 to 36,000, it will not be thought strange that serious opposition is encountered, whether we regard the source of such opposition as evil-minded men or as the great spirit of evil himself-the determined foe of Christ and of His Gospel,"

FRAGMENTS.

- —— Twenty-five of the missionaries of the English Church Missionary Society have been made Bishops.
- Rev. Jervois A. Newnham, of Montreal, has been chosen as the successor of Dr. Horden in the Bishopric of Moosonee.
- —— The gods of the Hindoo pantheon are for the most part incarnations of evil deeds, evil thoughts, and uuspeakable wickedness.
- A clergyman and his wife, still living, were sent out to Yoruba, in Africa, but speedily had to retire from ill-health, nor could they obtain the doctor's permission to return. They begged to be sent out again and were accordingly transferred to Ceylon. Again they were forced to retire through ill-health, and again prevented from returning to their field of labor. A third time they volunteered and were accepted. They were sent to one of the North-west America stations where to their great joy, they found themselves able to remain.

A MISSIONARY TOUR BY THE REV. A. B. CLARK.

OUR far-away friends and helpers, in trying to form a conception of the work of this mission, will not forget that, instead of having the people closely grouped about the Agency as they were ten years ago, we must now seek them out and minister to them in nearly a score of scattered settlements, villages and camps, where in some cases they have been given day-schools and chapels to help hold them to a fixed and settled location.

Now will you go with me on a rapid tour through some of these mission points? We start on a Monday at nine A.M., from our "rectory" at the Agency, and facing a sand-storm, make our way over the hills, across Little White river, and beyond the next ridge, to the Cut Meat creek. Reaching St. Peter's Station at noon, we take lunch with the teachers of the day-school, and then hold a brief service and address the people.

From this point we have in company the native catechist, John T. Henry (Growling Bear), and some few young men who are helping him in starting a Young Men's Society at each of the four stations on Cut Meat creek, where he now regularly conducts services and instructs the people.

At Hollow Horned Bear's camp, six miles above, we hold service at the close of school, and again have a very attentive congregation. A little before sunset we are off again for an hour's drive, to Thunka-bloka's camp, where we find the teacher willing to make ready for an evening service, which begins at half-past seven, with a room well filled with an orderly and interested assembly of young and old, all glad to sing our hymns and listen to the Gospel and its teachings. After the long service is over, the men assemble in one of the larger houses in the village, to talk over the organization of a Young Men's Society, and are not willing to give up the interesting discussion until "the wee sma' oures ayant the twal'." They have a quiet but genuine enthusiasm for this now popular style of "council," which has in part supplanted the Omaha dances. Usually they limit their sessions to 9 P.M., but when an extra occasion arises, their zeal seems to know no bounds.

Refreshed by a sound sleep, we are ready on Tuesday for the two hours' drive to Red Leaf camp, St. Barnabas' Station. Here we visit the school, and await the assembling of the people. At about midday, we hold service, and receive some candidates who are awaiting Holy Baptism.

After dinner and conversation, mid-afternoon finds us again on the road for a drive down the Black Pipe creek, past St. Paul's Station to St. Thomas' Chapel, which we reach at dusk. Unexpected, we yet receive a hearty welcome, and are soon refreshed with a supper quickly prepared. Then we go to the day-school and call at one or two other houses, arranging that all the settlement shall learn of the service to be held in the chapel early in the morning.

No "flowery bed of ease" is needed to induce sound sleep again this night.

On Wednesday morning, between eight and nine, the people have assembled to witness and partake of the two great Sacraments. A full congregation, earnest and devout, cheers the hearts of the missionary, and his co-laborer the catechist, Samuel After an early lunch, off we go on an unlooked-for errand. We hear of the alarming illness of a little babe, not yet baptized, at a camp just over the border of Pine Ridge Reserve, twenty-two miles away. As we near the camp, we meet mother and babe, with other friends, coming this way to be near the doctor. Turning about, we come at sunset, to the Black Pipe Issue House, and find comfortable shelter and rest for the night with the resident farmer's family.

In the morning, we go for a visit to the school, and a midday service at St. Paul's Station. After this, a hasty call brings us back to the issue house for the baptism of the babe, apparently not yet out of danger.

Now we strike out across the prairie to Lower Cut Meat, St. Mark's Station. Arriving just before sunset, we find the congregation awaiting us, and immediately make ready for service. Several are presented for Holy Baptism, and the bright, watchful eyes and quiet attention give assurance of unusual interest in the services.

A little later in the evening, our supper over, there begins a joint session of the young men's and young women's societies, to discuss the means of getting a chapel at this point. Our suggestions are well received, and every one is called on to speak his or her mind. At about midnight a satisfactory conclusion of the matter is reached, and all retire to homes and rest.

Early on Friday, we celebrate Holy Communion, and after breakfast set out for the return to the Agency. As we drive along, we see that the prairie fires are getting dangerously near the Agency, and so make haste. Nearing home, we learn that a large force of men have been fighting fire for two nights, and still there is much anxiety for the safety of property. This same fire ran before the gale, sixty miles or more that afternoon, and wrought much damage in places.

Two days at home give time to catch up a little in the matter of letter-writing and other duties, and the Sunday's services, with the quiet of home life, are very restful.

Monday morning comes again, and we start off down the Little White river, reaching St. John's Chapel in time for a midday lunch and a visit with the new teachers. Giving notice of a service on Wednesday, we drive on, and reach the Pine creek day-school (St James' Station), at sundown. After tea the people gather, and a most comforting service is held, with baptism of five persons.

Tuesday morning the drizzling rain with an occasional harder shower, would make one feel inclined to stay in-doors, but our field is large and times flies. So on with our rain-coats, and off we go, down through the mud and rain, twelve long miles to St. Philip's Station.

Here, at noon, we find the school full of children, while the boys are enjoying their lunch of hard bread and coffee.

We are summoned into the house for a bountiful lunch with the teachers, and then invited to visit the school. This we do, and while the rain beats steadily on the window-panes without, we watch the bright faces and listen to the cheery voices of the wide-awake boys and girls of this model school of language. This school has made remarkable progress in English, as in some other studies also, and would be a revelation to any one who has not learned by experience the wonderful aptitude of Indian children under good teachers.

At the close of school, some of the parents and friends having come in for that purpose, we hold service with a baptism and address. A few words of counsel here and there, and then we turn our attention to supper and an evening's visit.

Though it is still storming, we make a start again in the morning, and give our ponies a pull of thirty miles through the mud (now deep), up the river again, here and there climbing at snail pace, over the steep hills. At noon we halt and rest at St. James' Station, and hold another service for the baptism of three persons.

On again, we reach St. John's Chapel too late for an evening service, and so wait till the morning, when nine receive Holy Baptism. Then home again, and a busy two days' work with letters, reports, business calls and services.

Six o'clock Saturday evening finds us on our way to St. Mary's School, where we have not been since we held the Easter morning service in the school chapel. This evening all the children are in bed, so we have a quiet visit with the ladies, and retire. Sunday morning, bright and fair, brings good cheer to all, though one little sick girl is giving us some anxiety. The morning service comes with its spiritual feast to gladden all hearts and give food for meditation. In the afternoon we cannot tarry long, for we must be at Calvary Chapel, Oak creek, seventeen miles away, for evening service.

A little before sundown we reach that point, and find all expecting us. We learn that one of the young men, for a long time sick, is still lingering at death's door, and desires the Holy Communion. So then, after the chapel service, a few friends gather at the house, and we have a quiet service at George's bedside. Happy and grateful, he tries to rest, and soon after our next morning's visit, he is called to the rest of Paradise. Fond of his Dakota Bible and Prayer Book, he kept them at his side for months, and has taught his friends and neighbors many a good and lasting lesson. Uncultured, he yet had that refinement of mind and soul which attracted others, and brought them under his influence. that would benefit the living and show honor to the dead and dying, he tried to Requiescat in pace! teach and to lead others. so we do heartily pray.

On that Monday morning, accompanied by Philip Good Voice, catechist, we went down the Oak creek ten miles, to a recently formed camp, and held a sunset service at Fast Horse's. There people had assembled for a noonday service and were disappointed, but soon gathered again when our coming was made known. After prayers, addresses, and a consultation with the men, we set out to drive up to Calvary Chapel again for another night with our good friends in the day-school, Mr. and Mrs. Clements. Next morning we spend in calling at some of the houses in the camp.

When all is made ready for the burial service at 3 P.M., in the falling rain, a good many come to attend the service in chapel, and then to follow to the cemetery near by. Sincere sorrow is written on all faces, showing how much the pleasant words and smiles, and the helpful ways of George, will now be missed in that camp. And so we bury the son-in-law of the famous and good old chief "Good Voice."

And now our thoughts turn to the next place to be visited, and despite the rain that drives in our faces, we set out again in our open buggy for Butte creek and Mediator Chapel. A little after sunset, we cross the rude bridge over the swollen stream, and drive up to the door of the Mission House. The people being gathered, we make ready for service at once. Some are presented for Baptism. Our words are listened to so intently that our labors seem light indeed, and as if bringing their reward with them.

In the morning we find the ground white with snow again, and yet the storm being over, the morning's sun and wind soon dry the roads. After an early service we again set out for St. Matthew's Station, where we hold a noonday service and receive five candidates in Holy Baptism.

The catechist at Mediator Chapel, Silas Opagila, also holds services here, and shows great zeal and skill in instructing young and old in the truths of the Gospel and the Way of Life.

On this Wednesday evening we come again to St. Mary's school, where we are to meet the class preparing for Confirmation.

In such a hasty survey of a portion of this mission field, much is left unseen and unmentioned, yet enough appears, perhaps, to convince one of the real need and usefulness of the mission work.

One having visited sixteen stations and chapels in eighteen days, holding twenty-eight services, and baptizing fifty-eight persons, as a part of his regular monthly labors, finds himself happily busy and contented in that station of life unto which it hath pleased God to call him.

JAPAN.

ST. JOHN'S ORPHANAGE, OSAKA.
"LAST year you kindly invited me to send you an account of the St. John's Woman's Society's Orphanage, to be printed in a leaflet, or other form, in order to stir up the children of the Church in America to give more for it. At that time the Japanese ladies seemed to think that they had enough money, and that it was a pity to ask for more when so many other causes were needing help. In telling you this, I asked the privilege of being allowed to accept your invitation, if we should need more later. That time has come.

"This has been an exceedingly cold winter, and we have had so many applications for admittance into the Orphanage, that it is greater in numbers than ever before, notwithstanding the fact that we have recently sent out nearly all the larger children to service. We have twenty-one little ones now, almost all of whom are very young, and must be taken care of for several years before they can earn their own living. The children are, some of them, from very miserable circumstances of life and not strong. Nearly all the children are suffering in health, more or less; I think from the crowded condition of the house and its general unsuitability for the care of a large number of children. Japanese houses are dark, and very little sun ever enters them. There is a tiny garden behind the house now occupied, but it is not large enough for one child to skip around and get proper exercise, much less for twenty-one children. Those of the children who go to school or kindergarten get a little exercise going through the streets, but we have now a large number of tiny ones who cannot go, and who are too young to play in the narrow street with its dangers, and who, therefore, get very little exercise in the open air. Last summer the children, many of them, grew pale and weak under these circumstances, and many are not robust yet.

"It is so plain that we should have a house constructed conveniently for the care of many children, and with an out-door space of some kind, sufficiently large to afford a playground for the little ones, at least, that we were very glad to hear of a suitable place, recently, which was sold at a sale something like our 'sheriff's sale' in America. But the creditors of the owner overbid us by about 200 yen. We felt so disappointed, for it was a place on high ground not far from the church, and it is not often that a large piece of ground comes into market in this part of the city. I comforted myself with the thought that of course God's providence guided the matter, and that He might be bringing about the plan which I hope for, the building of the church and orphanage on one lot. This lot was not in Semba, where the church is, but in Uemachi, just a little way across one of the great canals. We bid all the money we had for it. There would have been nothing left to remodel the buildings, which are very old, and were built for a school-house. This experience has shown me that if our work grows, so we must have more money for the building fund. When I began to ask for this object we had less than a dozen children under our care, and many people said the ladies would not be able to take care of fifteen. But, as you see, the work has nearly doubled; in fact, it would be far more than doubled if all the applications which are made to us were granted. We have refused two pitiful cases this last month, for the ladies say that no more children can be received into the house, although we have money enough, which has been given for the support of the children, to care for two or three more. Our resources now amount to about 1250 yen, which can, if necessary, be applied to the building fund. The land spoken of above sold for about 1450 yen. do not know whether it would be possible to buy it still, by offering a larger price for Even then we must have several hundred ven to remodel the buildings, which are mostly in a tumble-down condition.

"I am trying to decide whether it would be well to advise the ladies to try to buy the land, paying all we can and running in debt for the balance. I have always positively refused to agree to the incurring of a debt in the work, and I think the ladies are as afraid as I to incur debt. But, if I am not mistaken, there is already about $200 for the orphanage received at the Missions Rooms and acknowledged in The Spirit OF MISSIONS, or made known to me by letter. At the present rate of exchange that would amount to enough, perhaps, to buy the place. The gentleman who acted for us at the sale, and who is a man of experience in such matters, says that the price paid was a little higher than the real value, but he said if we really wanted it very much, he should not think a few dollars would deter us. Land is going up all the time here in Osaka."

Offerings are asked to sustain missions in eighteen missionary jurisdictions and thirty-four dioceses, including missions to the Indians and to the Colored People in our land, as well as missions in China, Japan, Africa, Haiti and Greece-to pay the salaries of eighteen Bishops and stipends to 1,200 missionary workers, and to support schools, hospitals and orphanages.

> All things come of Thee. O Lord. And of Thine own bave we given Thee.

CHARACTER OF OUR MEN.

The Society has sent into the Ministry over 400 men. With rare exceptions they are doing efficient work in the Ministry. Many of them already occupy posts of large influence. Some are Bishops. Six are professors in Theological Seminaries. Several are eminent missionaries. A number are rectors of leading city parishes. Indeed, they are earnestly sought for, and gladly received wherever they go, and, as a rule, they are an honor to the Ministry and to the Church.

CONCLUSIVE TESTIMONY.

We select a few reports from Bishops who have charge of the larger portion of our graduates,

Bishops who represent widely separate sections of the country and various schools of churchmanship.

Bishop Clark, of Rhode Island, says: "They are regarded by us all as men of the highest ability, and they have all been most active and useful laborers here. They have exercised their Ministry to the glory of God and the edification of His Church."

BISHOP PINKNEY, of Maryland, writes: "All of them stand high in the list of clergy. Most, if not all of them, give promise of distinction in after life. They are Presbyters of whom any Diocese might be proud."

BISHOP CLARKSON, of Nebraska, writes: "As good men as we have in the West for zeal, piety, efficiency and usefulness."

BISHOP VAIL, of Kansas, writes: "Capital, excellent, faithful and true. Above the average." BISHOP WHITAKER, of Nevada, writes: "I am certain that the average ability, fidelity and fitness for usefulness of these men is higher than the average of the same qualities in any Diocese in which I am acquainted. I only wish that the whole body of the clergy could become as good,"

OUR POSITION.

We would by no means lift every burden from the student's back, or remove every obstacle out of his way; but merely spare him that labor and effort which weaken both mind and body.

CHURCH WORK IN MEXICO.

The Bishops of the following named dioceses, viz.: the Bishops of Connecticut, California, Rhode Island, Texas, Minnesota, Alabama, Maine, Missouri, Virginia, Vermont, Oregon, Long Island, Albany, Central New York, Pennsylvania, South Carolina, Central Pennsylvania, Massachusetts, North Carolina, Colorado, Kentucky, New Jersey, Western Michigan, Iowa, Quincy, West Virginia, Indiana, New York, North Dakota, East Carolina, Nebraska, Florida, Kansas, Delaware, Ohio, Michigan; Missionary Bishops of South Dakota, Northern California, Northern Texas, Montana, Washington, Western Texas, Arizona and New Mexico; Assistant Bishops of Virginia, Central Pennsylvania, Minnesota, Southern Ohio, and Bishop G. T. Bedell, in a circular, dated February 22, 1890, called the attention of the faithful clergy and lay people to the existence "of our important Church work in Mexico." On October 18th, 1892, the General Convention, sitting as the Board of Missions, passed the following resolution:

Resolved, That the Board of Missions commends the work established in Mexico and recognized by this Church in the appointment by the Board of Managers of a Presbyter nominated by the Presiding Bishop, to whom has been assigned the duty of counselling and guiding the work of those Presbyters and lay-readers who have asked for the fostering care of this Church to be extended to them as a mission. Provided, That no money be appropriated for such work in Mexico except what may be specially contributed for that purpose.

The work, therefore, in Mexico is now not only recognized but commended by the Board of Missions, and it was so commended that it appeals to Churchmen for support.

The work in Mexico, all under the Rev. H. Forrester as Superintendent, consists of twentynine mission stations, served by five priests (of whom four are natives), six lay evangelists (all natives) and nine teachers (of whom six are natives). It contains one thousand communicants and three thousand members. In the mission schools there are four hundred and forty-eight boarders and two hundred and twenty day-scholars. Miss Driggs is in charge of the girls orphanage and Mr. Hernandez in charge of the two theological students.

A permanent home has been secured for this work by the purchase of buildings in which are, the orphanage, the clergy house and the chapel.

WAYS AND MEANS.

This mission is carried on entirely by voluntary contributions, no appropriation being made by the Board of the Domestic and Foreign Missionary Society. The Advisory Committee in the United States consists of the following persons, namely: The Rev. H. V. Satterlee, D.D. (Pres.), the Rev. G. F. Flichtner (sec'y), the Rev. J. H. Eccleston, D.D., the Rev. G. Williamson Smith, D.D., the Rev. David H. Greer, D.D., the Rev. Chauncey B. Brewster, Mr. John H. Boynton (treas.), and Mr. E. P. Dutton, Mr. J. A. Scrymser, Mr. Anson Phelps Stokes, Mr. Charles J. Nourse, of New York, Mr. Amory N. Lawrence, of Mass., Mr. Lewis H. Redner, of Penn., Mr. Spencer Trask, of Albany.

Contributions intended for the salary and travelling expenses of the Rev. Mr. Forrester should be sent to Mr. George Bliss, 22 Bible House, New York City; and all other contributions to Mr.

JOHN H. BOYNTON, Treasurer, 23 Beaver St., New York City.

The Treasurer acknowledges the receipt of the following for the quarter ending May 1st. 1893.
